

National Research Infrastructure Advisory Group holds inaugural meeting

Update from Professor Liz Sonenberg – 14 March 2023

On Wednesday 1 February 2023 the inaugural meeting of the National Research Infrastructure Advisory Group (NRIAG) was held.

We had many lively conversations regarding the broad research infrastructure ecosystem in Australia. We discussed our ambitions for the Advisory Group in the context of our role to provide independent and long-term strategic advice on NRI priorities, domestic and international trends, and investment opportunities. We also discussed an outline workplan for the upcoming 12 months, including how we will provide advice to Government on the 2021 NRI Roadmap step change areas, workforce strategy, and industry engagement.

The second NRIAG meeting will take place on 29 March in Canberra.
